MIGRATORY BIRD LAW TO BE ENFORCED

Sportsmen Warned that Federal Regulations for Protection of Wild Fowl Must be Observed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16, '15

With the approach of the open season for shooting wild fowl, the United States Department of Agriculture is warning sportsmen that the Federal regulations as amended October 1, 1914, will be strictly enforced. Some misunderstanding has arisen from the fact that the various State laws do not always conform to the Federal regulations. This is regarded as unfortunate but in such cases the Department must insist upon the observance of the Federal regulations.

The Department will consider any recommendations submitted in good faith for amendment of the regulations, but will hold no public hearings thereon, nor will it amend the regulations prior to October 15, 1915. It is the purpose of the Department to conform the regulations to the wishes of the majority of sportsmen so far as it can be done and at the same time give wild fowl the necessary protection.

Federal regulations divide the United States into two zones, Zone No. 1, the breeding zone, includes the states of Oregon, Idaho, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, and all States north of them. Zone No. 2, the wintering zone, includes all States south of those named.

The regulations prescribe seasons as follows:

Open Seasons for Migratory Birds in 1915 Under Federal Regulations—Zone No. 2

Ariz. Oct. 15-Feb. 1

RAILS, COOTS, GALLINULES

Ariz. Oct. 15-Feb. 1

PROF. ROBINSON PUTS ON GOOD SHOW

Professor Robinson's Athletic show at the Sultana last Friday evening was not well attended, but the show was first class in every particular. The different stunts put on by the class from Flagstaff were interesting from start to finish. There were singing and dancing, wrestling and boxing. In the championship contest between Charlebois and Samsky for the medal for Coconino County, each wrestler was awarded one fall. Charlebois was credited for the first fall in 2½ minutes of actual wrestling, while Samsky received the second fall in 2 minutes of wrestling. Professor Robinson's bout with Henie and Bill Amann in the manly art of boxing resulted in the honors being about equally divided. If the show were to be repeated a much larger crowd would attend the next time.

GOOD OLD TIME DANCE AT HERR'S

Some forty-two couples responded to invitations sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Herr and their two sons, Basil and Merle and their wives, for the dance given at the Herr home, last Friday night. A good old time entertainment was had. Dancing was carried on continuously in the large living room and a great bonfire was kept going out-of-doors, before which those not dancing basked and conversed.

The music was declared by all to be of the very first order—the kind that makes you dance. It was furnished by Mr. Scantlin, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Merle Herr, Basil Herr, Dick Connors, M. C. Smith and others. There were three pieces to this orchestra, piano, drum and violin.

The Virginia Reel was the favorite dance of the evening and it was danced with a degree of life that could not be excelled. All of the other dances were executed with a rollicking delight that made all of the guests declare the dance the best ever.

When it came time for the refreshments made up of delicious sandwiches, salads, cake and coffee and pickles and olives, such appetites had been worked up that no king's banquet table could have been cleared with greater relish.

The guests departed, hoping that the delightful occasion may be repeated.

ARIZONA STATE FAIR

Phoenix Ariz. The annual display of poultry at the Arizona State Fair is the largest in the southwest. There is nothing that equals it between Dallas, Texas and Los Angeles, California, and not often is it that these two cities hold anything that overtops the Arizona display very much. The quality of the birds that are shown at this poultry show equals anything in the west, and it is not uncommon to have breeds on display that are the only ones of their kind in the country west of the Rocky Mountains.

There has been a great improvement in the class of birds that show at the Arizona State Fair. A few years ago anything that had feathers on, was considered a chicken for display purposes, but now owing to the impetus that is the direct result of these upbuilding chicken shows, the majority of people in the state who keep chickens at all, on the back lot or on the ranch, keep fine bred stock, something that they can take pride in as well as make a profit from.

This year the poultry show will be graced with five special cups, silver trophies, which will in a measure more than make up for the slight loss in the premium money. Birds of nearly all varieties standard and man-standard will be shown. The state fair is the most valuable medium of advertising poultry that the raisers of Arizona have. Fanciers from all over the four states exhibit at this show. They would not attempt this, were not the prestige of winning at the Arizona Poultry show worth a great deal more to them in the form of advertising than the actual return in money.

Not the least interesting part of the exhibit this year will be the display of turkeys, ducks and geese. This department always attracts a large crowd because there is always a demand for good birds. Special enclosures are made for these as well as for pheasants and pea fowls. Superintendent Powers of this department, is hard at work and expects to have a fine show.

FINE DISPLAY OF FARM PRODUCTS

Messrs. E. T. and C. H. Hinds have a fine display of farm products in one of the windows at Duffy Bros. store, this week. They show fine samples of wheat, corn and beans and a number of different varieties of potatoes that would be a credit to any country, all of their own raising. Those who have not looked into the farming industry in this section before are surprised to see what fine crops can be raised in a year like this, what might such industrious farmers do in a really good season?

One characteristic which both E. T. and C. H. Hinds have in common with most of the farmers of this section, is quiet industriousness. They have so little to say that we hardly know they are here, such products as these prove that they are getting right down to business and finding what our soil is good for. They have proved beyond a doubt that good farming can be made to pay here. Red Lake Valley has a promising agricultural future. And what these farmers have been doing in Red Lake Valley others are doing in our other farming sections.

It will take a number of years of development and experimentation to find out just what crops pay best and where markets can be found; but the time is certainly coming when Coconino county potatoes, beans and grains will prove a source of great wealth to the county.

"TEX" ALBERT NALL

died Wednesday morning, a little after midnight. "Little Tex", as he was lovingly known, was a grandson of Mr. T. A. Moore, who dearly loved him. He was six years old ten days ago. He was born with a weak heart and has made a brave fight and hard struggle to live as long as he has.

Doctors have long said that he could not live to be a man and it was doubtful if he could live over seven years. Four months ago to a day he came with his mother to the home of her father, T. A. Moore, when it was thought he could not live over ten days.

The best medical skill and constant attention and the most tender, loving and devoted care and nursing have prolonged his life beyond all expectation and seeming possibility, but could not hold him longer.

The funeral services will be held at the home of T. A. Moore on Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

On Sunday Morning, at the Methodist Church, following right on at the close of Sunday School, and in place of the regular service, will be held a memorial service, to which all are invited, but it is intended to be of special interest to children and young people and parents who have lost children.
